The Roseate New Delhi

The Roseate as its name suggests, is a bird with partly pink plumage. With nature being the focal point, The Roseate has translated this vision into reality. Designed by Khun Lek Bunnag, The Roseate New Delhi prides itself on award winning architecture combined with warm ambience, an exotic location and top-notch services. The uber luxurious property is spread across eight acres of land, with well landscaped gardens featuring refreshing greenery and tranquil waterways shimmering with clear water. A sculpted landscape, The Roseate unfolds its myriad shapes and moods languorously. Inspired by the five elements, the dial, the soothing temple bells, the extended water bodies, all in perfect sync to enhance your well-being and comfort and transport you into a world of blissful serenity.
