Commenting on the acquisition, Ankur Bhatia, Executive Director, Bird Group, said, "Bird Group is a highly esteemed and recognized name in the travel industry and has come a long way in diversifying into the hospitality arena. Bird Hospitality has already tied-up with a leading Thai international hotel operator and plans to manage the five hotel properties, which it is developing across India. With over 40 years of experience in India, we wanted to expand and set up our business overseas. The Royal Park Hotel will provide the group a suitable prospect and enable it to establish its footprints across the hospitality sector in markets beyond India and APAC region. The fabulous location, above average room sizes (as compared to London standards) and the typically British character of The Royal Park Hotel, offers great potential for future development and expansion."

The Royal Park Hotel was constructed from shell, in the year 2004. The Bird Group will further enhance the look and feel of the property by May 2011. The company will also add a star restaurant to the hotel property by the third quarter of this year.
